WHITE COAT CEREMONY

SATURDAY, APRIL 15, 2023

Bourne Lecture Hall
True Blue Campus, Grenada

“Tonight is a transition in life—an opening, a passage, and a precious opportunity to reassert what we share, what we deeply believe beyond subspecialty or gender or age—that the chains of pain and suffering can and will be broken, that the world can change one person, one situation, one diagnosis, one dignity-affirming moment, one life-affirming moment at a time.”

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

DOLLAND NOEL, MD '97, BSC, FACP, PG. DIP

Dolland Noel, MD '97, is associate dean of clinical studies, Grenada at St. George's University School of Medicine. Dr. Noel has held the position since 2011 and is also a professor and co-chair of the Department of Clinical Skills.

In addition to his roles at SGU, Dr. Noel is an internal medicine consultant and heads the Department of Medicine at the Grenada General Hospital. He is responsible for developing and coordinating clinical programs for third- and fourth-year medical students and basic sciences programs. He also heads the Clinical Training Unit at the General Hospital, which runs an accredited internship training program graduating 20 interns per year.

Dr. Noel is a member of several professional societies, including the American College of Physicians, the American Association of Clinical Endocrinology, and the Caribbean College of Family Practitioners. Dr. Noel is board certified by the American Board of Internal Medicine, has won several awards for academic and professional excellence, and has co-authored many publications. He is also a member of the Grenada Medical Association and spearheads many local committees and initiatives.

In 1997, Dr. Noel earned his Doctor of Medicine from SGU and completed postgraduate training in internal medicine at the Mount Sinai School of Medicine (Jamaica) Program at Queens Hospital Center, where he was also chief medical resident. Before becoming an MD, he received a Bachelor of Science as a double major in chemistry and biology from the University of the West Indies Cave Hill Campus, Barbados, and subsequently completed postgraduate research in chemistry at the same institution. Dr. Noel later obtained a postgraduate diploma in endocrinology from the Queen Mary College, University of London, UK.

MASTER OF CEREMONIES

KAZZARA RAEBURN, MD '08, MSC '20

Kazzara Raeburn, MD '08, is an assistant professor and co-chair of the Department of Anatomical Sciences at St. George's University School of Medicine. Dr. Raeburn also has significant experience in curriculum development, serving as assistant dean for curriculum in basic sciences and is chair of the Basic Sciences Curriculum Subcommittee. In this role, she is involved in expanding the teaching and assessment of communication skills and professional behaviors within the SOM courses.

Additionally, Dr. Raeburn became the youngest course director of the integrated Term 1 course in the new systems-based curriculum in 2016. She was actively involved in the development of this new curriculum and was tasked with being the first course director to implement it with a pilot class of medical students. Over the next three years, Dr. Raeburn directed this popular course and introduced innovative ideas that increased the integration of clinical knowledge into the basic sciences. This included the expansion of ultrasound and simulation labs, integrated small groups, and clinical cases within the course.

Dr. Raeburn is a member of several professional societies, including the American Association for Anatomy (AAA) and the American Association of Clinical Anatomists (AACA), where she serves on the Association Council and chairs several standing committees.

A proud alumna, Dr. Raeburn earned her Doctor of Medicine, graduating cum laude from SGU. She later completed her clinical training in the UK and returned to serve at the Grenada General Hospital. Dr. Raeburn began her career at SGU as a clinical instructor in the Department of Anatomical Sciences and was quickly promoted to lecturer. In 2020, she received a master's degree in anatomy, where her research focused on the clinical application of ultrasound with a special interest in the posterior forearm.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT EMERITUS

G. RICHARD OLDS, MD, MACP

Today should have special meaning to both you and your families in that it symbolizes your entry into the medical profession. Doctors in training are afforded very special privileges. Taking on the mantle of doctors also carries great responsibilities. Although you may not in the beginning know a great deal about medicine, you will be expected to hold yourselves to the very highest standards of integrity, honesty, and compassion. Today is but the first step in what I hope is a great career for you.

MESSAGE FROM THE CHANCELLOR

CHARLES R. MODICA, JD, DCL (HONORARY)

I welcome all of you to St. George's University School of Medicine. You have chosen a great and noble career. This White Coat Ceremony symbolizes your entry into the medical profession, a milestone in your life that carries with it a profound obligation of service to others.

As you begin your studies for this challenging career, you must weigh opportunity against responsibility. St. George's University will equip you with all the right tools for the job, but how much you take away with you will depend on how you approach the experience and how much effort you invest in it. I wish you every success.

MESSAGE FROM THE DEAN, SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

MARIOS LOUKAS, MD, PHD

Today bears reflecting on a few of the principles of the oath you will affirm upon graduation from this institution. At the heart of that oath is a resolve to treat the sick to the best of your ability, to preserve patient privacy, and to safeguard life. It also calls to mind a responsibility to share your wisdom with others. Recognize that in entering the field of medicine you join a community, wherein the team is as pivotal to success as individual effort. To this end, you must strive for excellence in your pursuit of knowledge, for you can only give your best when you fulfill your potential.

As you don these white physician coats, you pledge an oath of professionalism and service. While these values are under attack, they are a necessary requirement in medical practice. Professionalism is a commitment to integrity, altruism, competence, and ethics in the service of others.

A physician must constantly balance the needs of his patients and society against the available resources and his own interests. We must endeavor to honor the sacred trust and privilege that society places in medical professionals, cognizant that the standard is an ideal that we must continuously aim to achieve.

HONOR CODE

ST. GEORGE'S UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

As a member of the student body of St. George's University School of Medicine, an institution of medical education dedicated to a high standard of ethics and academic achievement, and recognizing that it is the duty of the University community to nurture responsible, competent, and safe physicians who exhibit professional maturity and sound moral character, I agree:

- To adhere to the University policy of maintaining a high standard of honor and academic integrity;
- To uphold these ideals by refraining from cheating, plagiarism, lying, and theft; and,
- To accept the responsibility of reporting such wrong doing upon witness.

It is understood that any breach of this Code necessitates disciplinary action, subject to the discretion of University officials. Once signed, acquiescence to this Code is in effect.

PROFESSIONALISM COMMITMENT

Today is the beginning of my medical education and training as a physician. I acknowledge my responsibility to continue the pursuit of knowledge and understanding until that day when I will cease to be a practicing physician.

I am entering training for a noble profession in which my interest must always be subservient to those who may seek my assistance. I must be ever conscious of the value of my fellow health professionals and treat them with respect at all times. My classmates at St. George's University are now my colleagues and I owe to them the same support and encouragement to achieve their goals as I hope to receive from them. I will work alongside my colleagues and professors with tolerance, compassion, and honesty.

I acknowledge my obligation to adhere to the University Honor Code and to conduct myself with integrity and in an ethical manner at all times henceforth. I shall do all within my power to show in myself an example of all that is honorable and good throughout my medical career. It is a privilege to have been given the opportunity to become a physician. May I be ever conscious of that privilege and never abuse it.

Written by the Student Ethics Task Force and Alexander P. Ross, MS, FRCS

GOLD HUMANISM HONOR SOCIETY

Every academic year, a group of students is inducted into St. George's University School of Medicine Chapter of the Gold Humanism Honor Society (GHHS). Inductees are nominated by their peers and selected on the basis of their humanistic qualities and community service. Our GHHS strives to promote humanism and high ethical standards in medicine and medical education. The White Coat Ceremony Committee extends congratulations to our most recent inductees:

THE WHITE COAT CEREMONY

More than 25 years since its inception at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University in 1993, the White Coat Ceremony has become an important ritual symbolizing a student's induction into the medical profession. St. George's University School of Medicine embraced the White Coat Ceremony in 1996.

Affirming this oath of commitment to the medical profession at the beginning of their studies inducts our MD students into the medical profession—and its highest ethical and professional standards—from the very beginning of their career.

The ceremony is significant not just to each incoming class, but for all who attend including: St. George's University faculty; its staff; students' families and friends; and the White Coat Ceremony keynote speakers who inspire first-term students with heartfelt words of wisdom and personal reflections. It is their spoken contributions that we treasure, and are honored to share with past, present, and future generations of St. George's University students.

“Time, sympathy, and understanding must be lavishly dispensed, but the reward is to be found in that personal bond which forms the greatest satisfaction of the practice of medicine.

One of the essential qualities of the clinician is the interest in humanity, for the secret of care of the patient is caring for the patient.”

Francis W. Peabody
